

Finding 3: Collapse follows similar dynamics and can be anticipated by indicators

Reward standard deviation and entropy often fluctuate before performance degrades, while gradient norm spikes typically mark the point of irreversible collapse. These metrics provide early indicators and motivate the need for stabilization strategies.